The 2023 ChinaBio® Partnering Forum is the ninth in a row that Johnson & Johnson Innovation has been invited to participate in. As one of the most important partnering forums for the life science industry in China, it is always an honor for us to attend, especially this year's in-person event after a three-year pause.

Though impacted by Covid-19 and the market turmoil, collaboration remains an important approach to accelerating healthcare innovation. We are excited to see more opportunities and an evolving landscape for transformative healthcare and biomedical innovation in China and other markets across Asia. My team and I look forward to meeting partners and innovators at the J&J Innovation booth and our partnering meetings at this year's ChinaBio® on September 20 & 21!
