Leading Risk Culture

12:15 - 12:50
Leadership, Climate Change & ESG and Emerging Risks

Whereas the first line of defense is actively assuming risks and is therefore creating the risk culture of a company, the risk managers of the second line of defense have the opportunity and even more the duty to steer the risk culture in the right direction. This entails in particular the way decisions are made and followed up upon. Good decisions require people with different risk dispositions, i.e., different attitude toward risk, and people who can combine logic and reason with instinct and emotion. In this talk, we will shed light on how risk managers can help companies live a good risk culture.
